

Language Policy of College of Educational Sciences

- All academic courses are taught in Arabic with the option to use English for courses that require it, especially in advanced or internationally oriented subjects.
- Some courses may be offered in English for graduate students (master's and doctoral programs) to keep up with global developments in educational sciences.
- The use of diverse teaching methods is encouraged to incorporate multiple languages to ensure a deeper understanding of subjects.
- Faculty members and students are encouraged to conduct academic research in both Arabic and English.
- The university's official language (Arabic or English, as applicable) is used in all administrative documents, academic announcements, and correspondence.
